Despite her difficult circumstances, Cinderella remains a kind and gentle soul. She is always hopeful and dreams of a better life. One day, the prince of the kingdom announces a ball, and all the young women in the land are invited. Cinderella longs to go but her stepmother and stepsisters refuse to let her.

Just when all hope seems lost, a fairy godmother appears and transforms Cinderella into a beautiful princess. She gives her a beautiful gown, glass slippers, and a pumpkin carriage to take her to the ball. The fairy godmother warns Cinderella that the magic will only last until midnight, and she must return home before the clock strikes twelve.

At the ball, Cinderella dances with the prince and they fall in love. However, as the clock strikes midnight, Cinderella must rush home. In her haste, she loses one of her glass slippers. The prince finds the slipper and vows to search the kingdom until he finds its owner.

The prince visits every house in the kingdom, looking for the woman who fits the glass slipper. When he arrives at Cinderella's house, her stepsisters try to hide her, but the prince is determined to find the true owner of the slipper.

Finally, the prince finds Cinderella and they are reunited. They marry and live happily ever after.
